'Brighter Days' is the debut single from London based DJ/producer ALEX POET and it's his homage to the original 1994 house classic from Cajmere.

This new version features a fierce vocal from EDDY QUEENS who old soul heads will know from her 1990s club anthem 'Someday'.

Alex says: "I loved Cajmere's original version of Brighter Days," says Alex, "so I wanted to pay tribute to this classic track, while putting my own artistic stamp on it. It was important to me that I announce my arrival as a producer with a track that has given me so much enjoyment over the years. I have fond memories of 'Brighter Days' from when I first started going clubbing. Hopefully this new version will provide many other music lovers with their own 'brighter days'!"
