Sadly we don't hear too much about TERRI WALKER these days. Last we heard was her 2014 collaborative EP with Joe Buddha. The good news is that Ms Walker is back with Joe and working on a new EP set for release early next year.

The EP's title track has just been released to whet appetites. It's a swaggering reggae inspired track – 'Breakout' which Joe says has real authenticity because of their shared Jamaican heritage. There are two versions on offer – the "straight" one and one with UK rapper Rodney P adding his Cockney Yardie swagger to the song.
